Idaho 4-H Youth Horse Contests

Judging Contest

Horse judging enables youth to enhance their knowledge of equine conformation and performance considerations by evaluating/ranking classes consisting of four horses each. Youth also build effective communication skills by sharing their observations with others through oral reasons. This contest determines eligibility for advancement to subsequent national events

Eligibility

Each of the four 4-H Extension Districts may enter ten (10) teams {preferably five (5) Junior teams and five (5) Senior teams} consisting of three to four (3-4) members per team. As their three highest scores determine the team score, the use of four member teams is strongly encouraged, but not required. Each team must start with at least three contestants. If a team falls below three members at any point before their competition is completed, they shall be deemed ineligible for team placings/awards; each contestant fully completing the contest shall be eligible for individual awards.

Contest Overview

The Idaho 4-H Horse Judging Contest will be on Thursday, July 6, 2023 at Expo Center Arena on the CSI campus in Twin Falls, ID. Contestants will judge six to eight classes of horses (3 to 4 halter classes and 3 to 4 performance classes). After completing the judging classes, each contestant will give two sets of oral reasons. Reason classes will be announced during the orientation session.

An official will determine final placings. Halter classes evaluate conformation and action; performance classes assess horse and rider performance as they appear. After all contestants' reasons are completed, official judge class placings/reasons will be given.

Contest Rules

All contestants must comply with the current Idaho 4-H Horse Judging Procedures and Rules (<http://www.uidaho.edu/extension/4h/programs/contests>).
